

Dearham Abr. 28. 1840.

Dear Friend:

I have taken the liberty to ask Johnson to send you the proof of my N. R. editorial to read for me. I do not wish you to bother yourself about spelling, stops &c, but merely to see that the words & sense are given correctly, & that the types play none of those fantastic tricks which make authors' fame. You know well enough that accidents will happen in the best regulated printing offices, if they do it is at the very place where you wish they did not. You may be sure I will do as much for you.

I wrote you a long letter on Sunday which I trust you have rec<sup>d</sup> & that it will bring me in due time ~~arrive~~ from Nant. H. We had a very pleasant Concert of the Slaves last night, which I led.

I have much to say, but must return to my farm. Next Sunday, if duly encouraged, I will tell you sundry things, "Home Rule", as Lowe to all [Common 1841].

Truly yours

Samuel May.

M. W. Chapman.

I trust that the paper of the Non-Resistant will be discomfited by some M. W. C. S.
